Studio florisvanderkleij is searching for an independent operating intern who is willing to work for a versatile design agency in Amsterdam. The intern will be responsible for helping realize a variety of different design projects the firm is currently handling.

Studio florisvanderkleij is focusing on a highly sustainable wooden building for an innovative geo-energy firm using laminated wooden beams and a large CLT board. This project is currently undergoing technical development and realization.

The student will be helping develop a moving device designed to address the waste issues in the Vondelpark as an extension of the Smash the Trash project. They will also be working with Piet van de Werf in order to help examine opportunities of developing the Hubbel building system in international markets.

Furthermore, the student will be working on the construction coordination of the restoration of the church at Lauriergracht.

SfvdK offers a good working space and a competitive salary while also recommending that the intern have an ov-card, a bike, and a place to stay in Amsterdam.
